Whether we are behind the scenes of a production like Mark Riehl and Jay Hattersley (A) or performing for others' enjoyment like George Payne (D) or for our own improvement like Gail Fidelholtz (E), we grow. Activities teach us from experiences—a peek at Janice Dunbar (B) learning Dewey's Decimals or Sue Starkey practicing handsprings to the dismay of Debbie Fickes and Sue Scheurer (H). We remember the cold football games (G), victories over Hoover (C), and bad calls by referees (F). Our greatest moments, though are when we hang loose (I) and show our true selves as does Pam Van Voorhis (J).

Election Day, 1968—A day of destiny

Even though the high school student couldn't vote on November 5, his interest was no less than that of the American adult. As the day approached, speakers, buttons, and posters tried to win a vote for one of the candidates. Lehman held its own election in which it followed the national trend by choosing Richard Nixon.

Field goals for the Bears averaged forty-two percent and foul shots averaged fifty-six percent. The hours of practice after school resulted in one of the finest Lehman Varsity teams in many years.

Teams press for Varsity

To be a member of the Varsity team is always the goal of Frosh and Reserve basketball players. The Freshmen attributed their wins to fine outside shooting, defense, and ball-handling. Out-sized by every team they encountered, the Frosh were able to combat this problem. In contrast, the Reserves had exceptional height. Also in their favor were outside shooting and good work on the boards.

Milligan "kicks up" another bucket for the Reserves.

Cheerleaders bedazzle student sports

Cheerleaders created a new uproar of zeal in sports activities. They marched in the Hall of Fame Parade in their new uniforms, sponsored a basketball game with WHLO and our faculty, and incessantly sold battle ribbons. Somehow, the varsity, reserve, and freshmen girls also found time to practice cheers.

Chairs are scarce at the parade.

Lehman spirit hits W.H.L.O.

Varsity cheerleaders: Brenda Hayes, captain; Pam Grady, Rita Shannon, Connie Riehl, alternate; Lorrie Hawkins, and Nadine Whitehouse. Absent: Cindy Boerner

Reserve cheerleaders: Amy Wyand, Heidi Spring, alternate; Sue Barr, Molly Kinney, Nova Marku, and Hazel Steffen. Absent: Debbie Thomas

Harriers surmount third-year difficulties

To Jim Abelson, running is 90% exhaustion.

Few returning lettermen and stiff competition were the major problems faced by the Cross Country team. As a result, Coach Sommers expected no more than a rebuilding year. However, as the season progressed, the boys showed great self-improvement. The team finished second in our district, qualifying them for the regional meet. There the Lehman harriers took eleventh place, completing a very successful year.

One down for Mike Trauscht . . .

Wrestlers pin hopes on young talent

In their second season of varsity competition, the wrestlers showed better technique, which improved their record. Perhaps new uniforms and a regular practice schedule added incentive. Since most of the boys will be returning next year, hopes of the team run high.

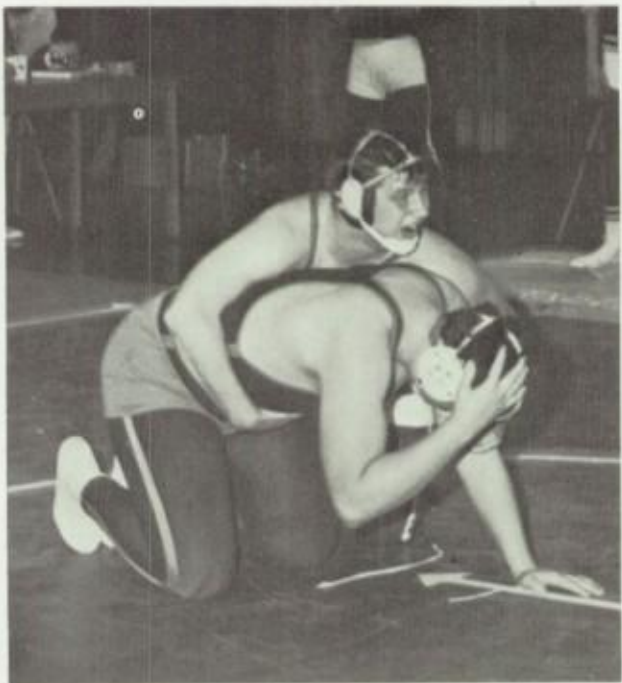

Schweitzer shows the agony of a close battle.

Gillette shaves a close victory.

Mannos drives his opponent to the mat to gain three points during the All-City Tournament.

Dickerhoof awaits the "Ready, wrestle!"

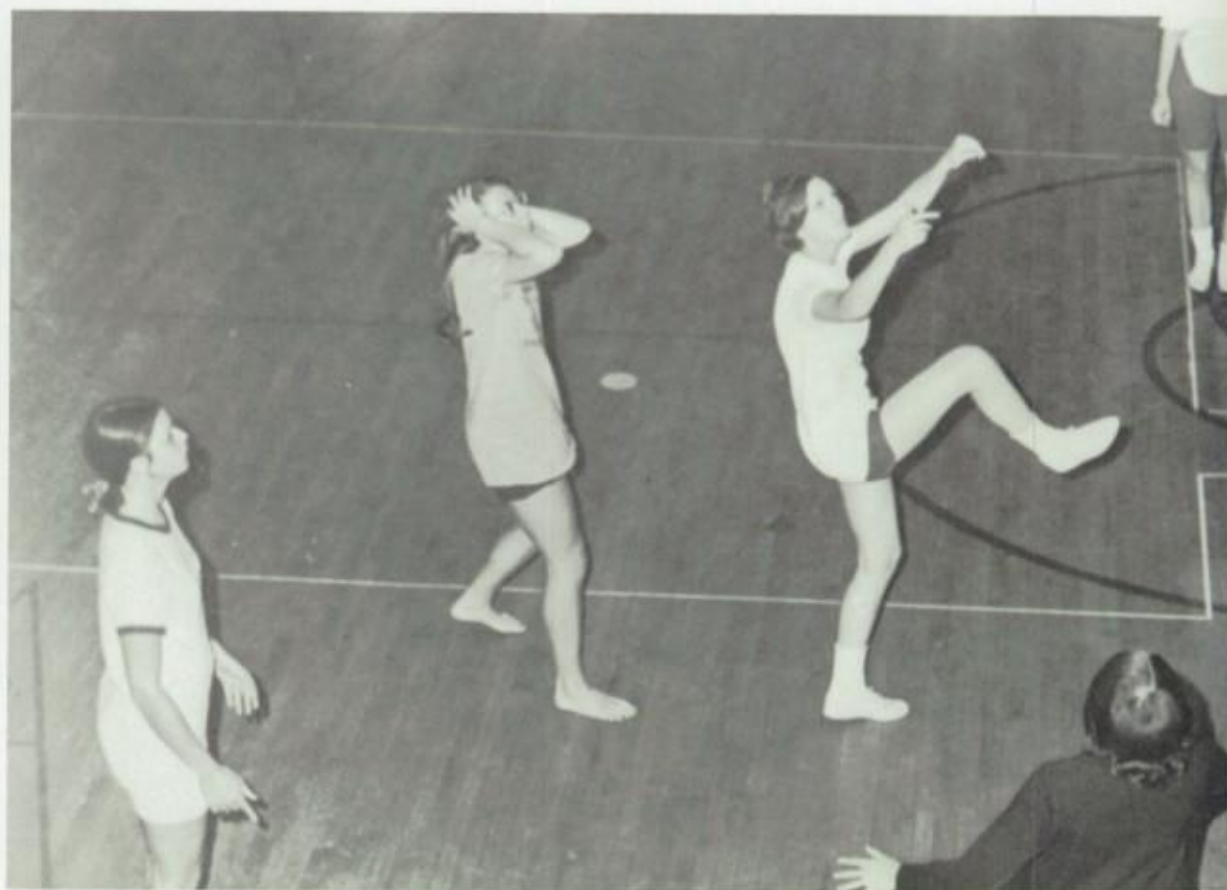

"Get off my back!" Co-captains Prazer and Rechkemmer at warm-ups.

Ah-h-h-h-h-h-h, shoot two!

"Wait a minute—I didn't catch that ball!"

Everyone despairs as the game reaches the crucial game point.

The boys play a tense game of volleyball . . .
... and then take a breather before the next round.

SPORTS

Intramurals relieve daily anxieties

Sick of studying? Tired of trying? When Lehman students found themselves in this predicament, they withdrew to the gym. There they might have joined either basketball or volleyball intramurals. Teams were formed early in the season and action-packed games were played. Tournaments, involving stiff competition, determined basketball and volleyball champs in both girls' and boys' divisions.

Obviously, Dan Dagastino doesn't like people in his way.

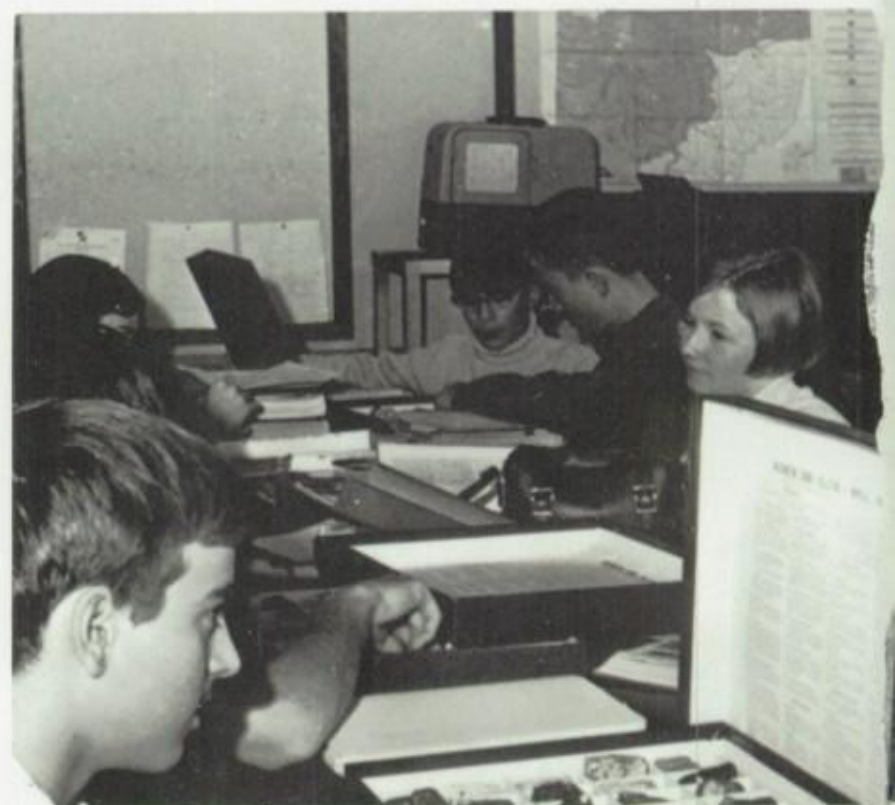

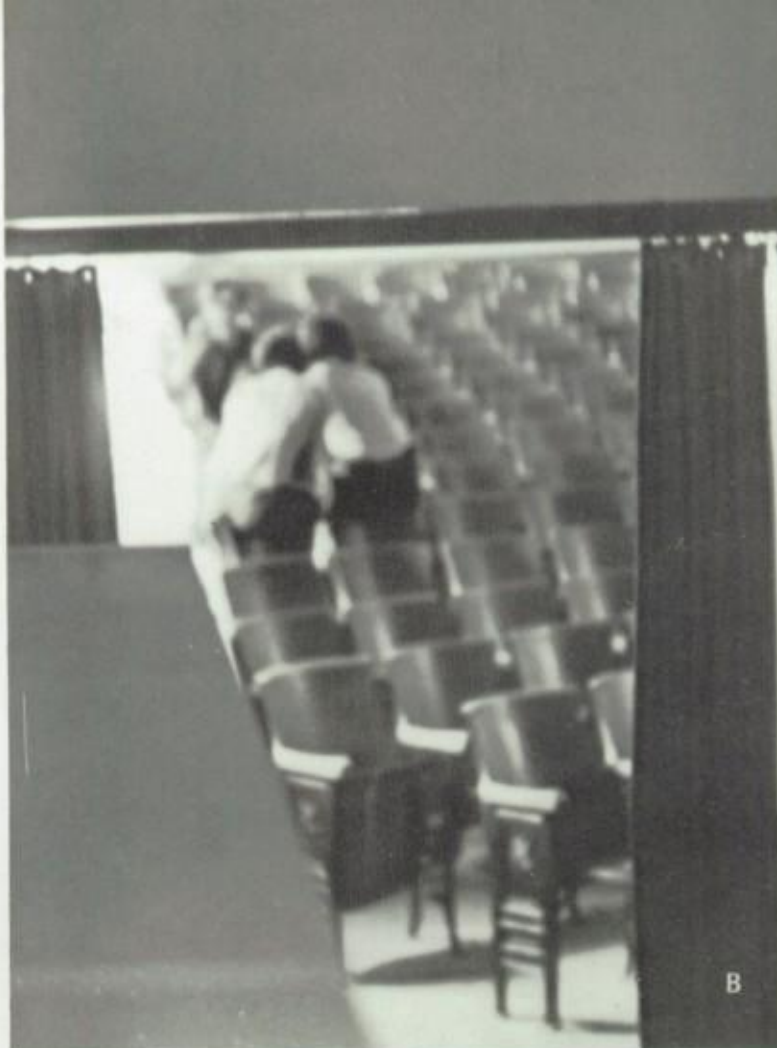

Someone lends a helping hand.

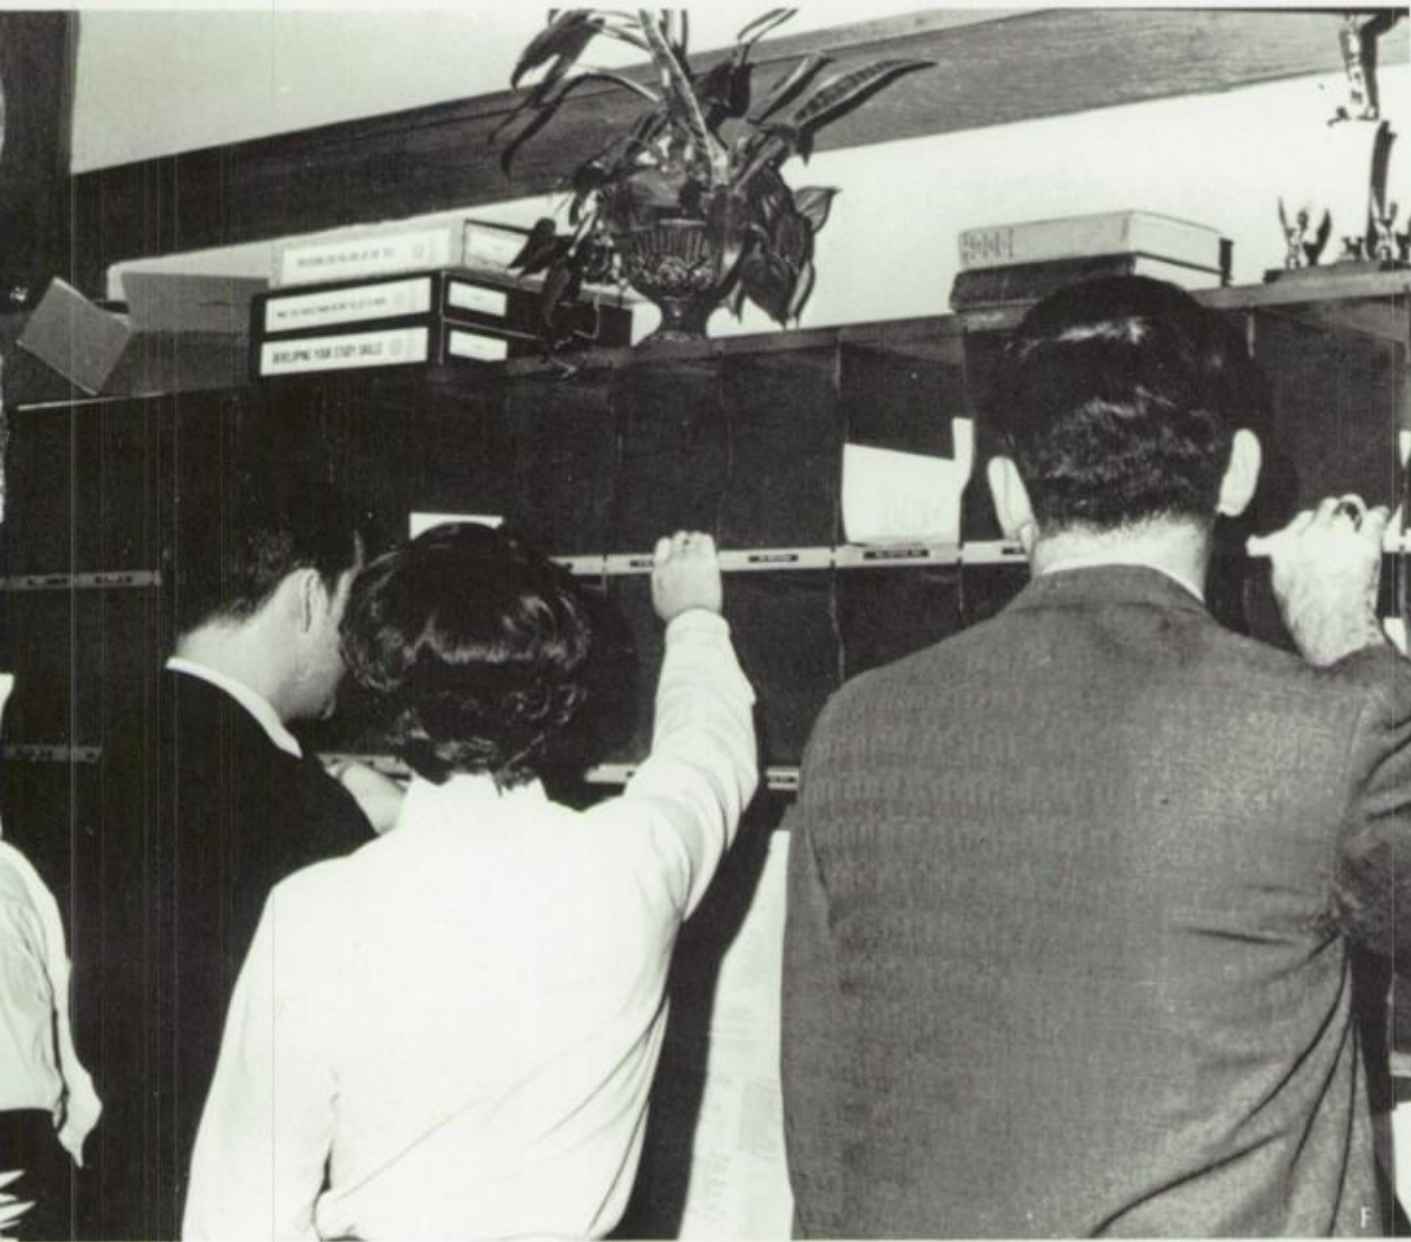

From the outside, Lehman High School is like any other school (A), but when we enter we find a completely unique world full of people meeting people (B). Sharing vaccination moments with Nadia Shaheen's grimace (C) and Earth Science rocks in 307 (G), not to mention our hall passes with Blair Singer (H), acquaint us with all facets of people. To help us in understanding these aspects, Mr. Barnes (D & E) and his faculty prepare our curriculum. We respect their acceptance of confusion (F) and the hours of busy work (I), but Sally shows we still get fed up (J).

Anthony Angelo
Occupational Work Experience

Lehman's average teacher of 1968-69 was a remarkable individual. He met the following qualifications: male, thirty-seven years old, five-feet eight-inches tall, 143 pounds, brown hair, married, two children, B.A. degree, and twelve years teaching experience. By 4:15 he was as eager to leave as his pupils.

Green walls decorate classrooms

World History, "taught to a tune of a hickory stick."

After the first eight minutes of chaos in the average Lehman class, the twenty pupils were settled, and an absence was recorded. To the left of the desks were eight windows while on the opposite side of the room hung a map. Two front blackboards were in use. Enclosing this scholastic atmosphere were urpy green walls.

Lehman's total look means variety

At faculty meetings, teachers often come down with the 3:15 blahs.

Although the average could be mathematically computed, each teacher, classroom, and student retained certain individual characteristics. This year, Lehman offered to its students a large selection of courses with qualified teachers. It was a combination of classes and individuals that provided a successful academic year.

Policy-makers accept challenge

Halbert E. White, First Assistant Superintendent

Henry P. Kurdziel, Executive Director for Instruction

Lehman's role as an integral part of the Canton school system was expanded by a capable school board. Dr. Young and his staff worked diligently in conjunction with Mr. Barnes and Mr. Henderson to coordinate school policies.

Board of Education: William English; Mrs. Schreiber, Vice President; Paul Perkins, John Johnston, President; Loren Souers, Sanford Lazarus.

George P. Young, Superintendent

Robert Henderson, Assistant Principal

Richard Barnes, Principal

Maintenance Staff: Joseph Kocur, William Smith, Victor Rainsberger, Clyde Dugan, Ernest Sheeler, Clancy Brown.

Workers toil behind the scenes

Cafeteria Staff: Evelyn East, Irene Suci, Helen Trump, Mary Fusillo, Helen Shank.

Secretaries: Nora Cook, Helen Bibbee, Ruth Knappenberger, Betty Kirkbride.

The faces of the custodians, cooks, and secretaries were as familiar to the student body as were those of the teachers. As a result of these three staffs, the school ran well, ate well, and mimeographed well. Many thanks to the competent workers.

ENTER THE YOUNG

Here they come;
 Some are walking,
 Some are riding,
 Some are flying,
 Some are gliding.
 Released after years
 Of being kept in hiding,
 They're climbing
 Up the ladder rung by rung.
 Enter the young . . .
 Some with questions
 And decisions,
 Some with thoughts,
 And some with visions,
 Some are laughing,
 Some are crying,
 Some are doing,
 Some are trying,
 Some are living,
 Some are dying.
 Enter the young . . .
 Now they've learned to think
 More
 Than you think they think:
 Not only learned to think,
 But to care—
 Not only learned to think,
 But to dare—
 Enter the young . . .

KEEPSAKE BOXES

Now we shall open boxes and look.
 In this one a storm was locked up, hoarse from long howling.
 In this one lay fair weather, a blue sky manuscript.
 In this one unfolded a gray monotone of a fog afternoon.
 In each box was a day and its story of air and wind.
 Sometimes one shook with confusions, processional of weather.
 "One day may be too much to gather, consider, and look among keepsakes."

Rena, Pete and Olga . . .

. . . go boom-boom!

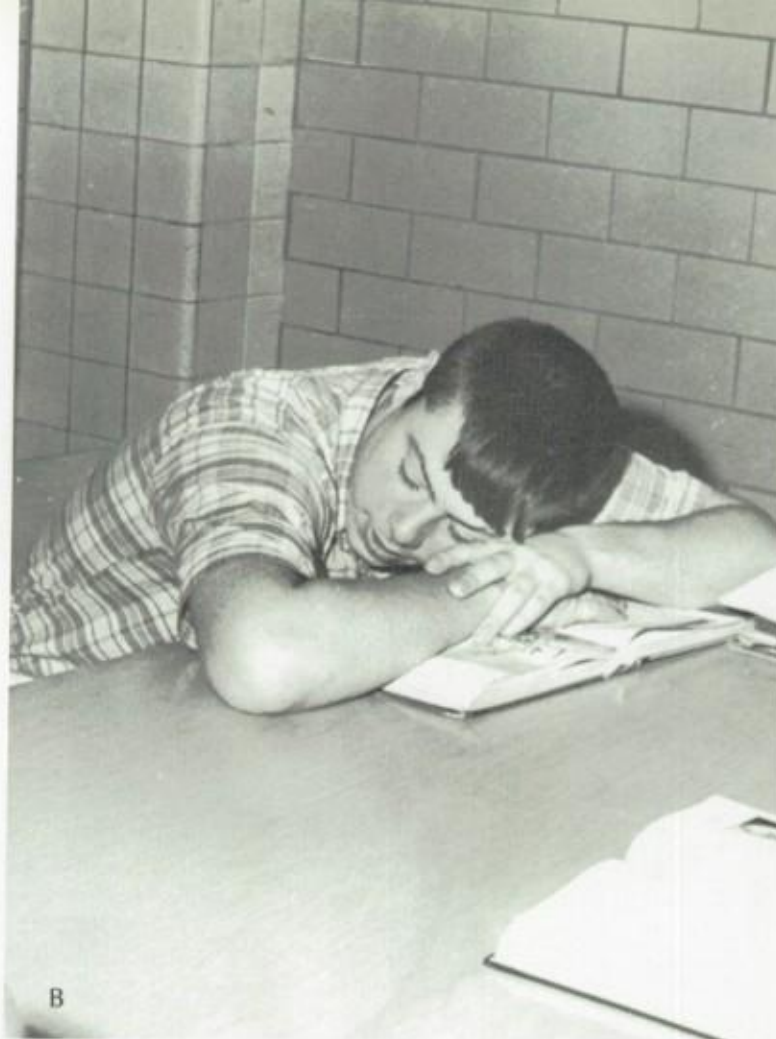

SAY MAN! WE'RE WHAT'S HAPPENING!!!

Mike and Francine lay their school spirit on the line.

Empty halls surround empty people(A) until we wake up (B) and find that 15th and Oxford is more than just a street sign (C). It is people and the things they do. Lehman is the senior's contempt for the freshman, but Dave Messer (E) just shrugs Polly Skala's dirty looks (D). Student life characterizes the silly notion we have to make others happy, like lunchtime birthday parties (G) or Christmas Toy Assemblies (F). Drudgery of classrooms continues (H), and often we would like to rebel like Chuck Schwab (I). Just to take that chance ... and yet student life goes on (J).

MONTA

SEM MONTAGE INTAGE

*A greater world lies outside Lehman halls.
To grow into this world, we must graduate to responsibility through involvement.
Working with people and sharing experiences in the community give us dimension as deeper individuals.*

STUDENT LIFE

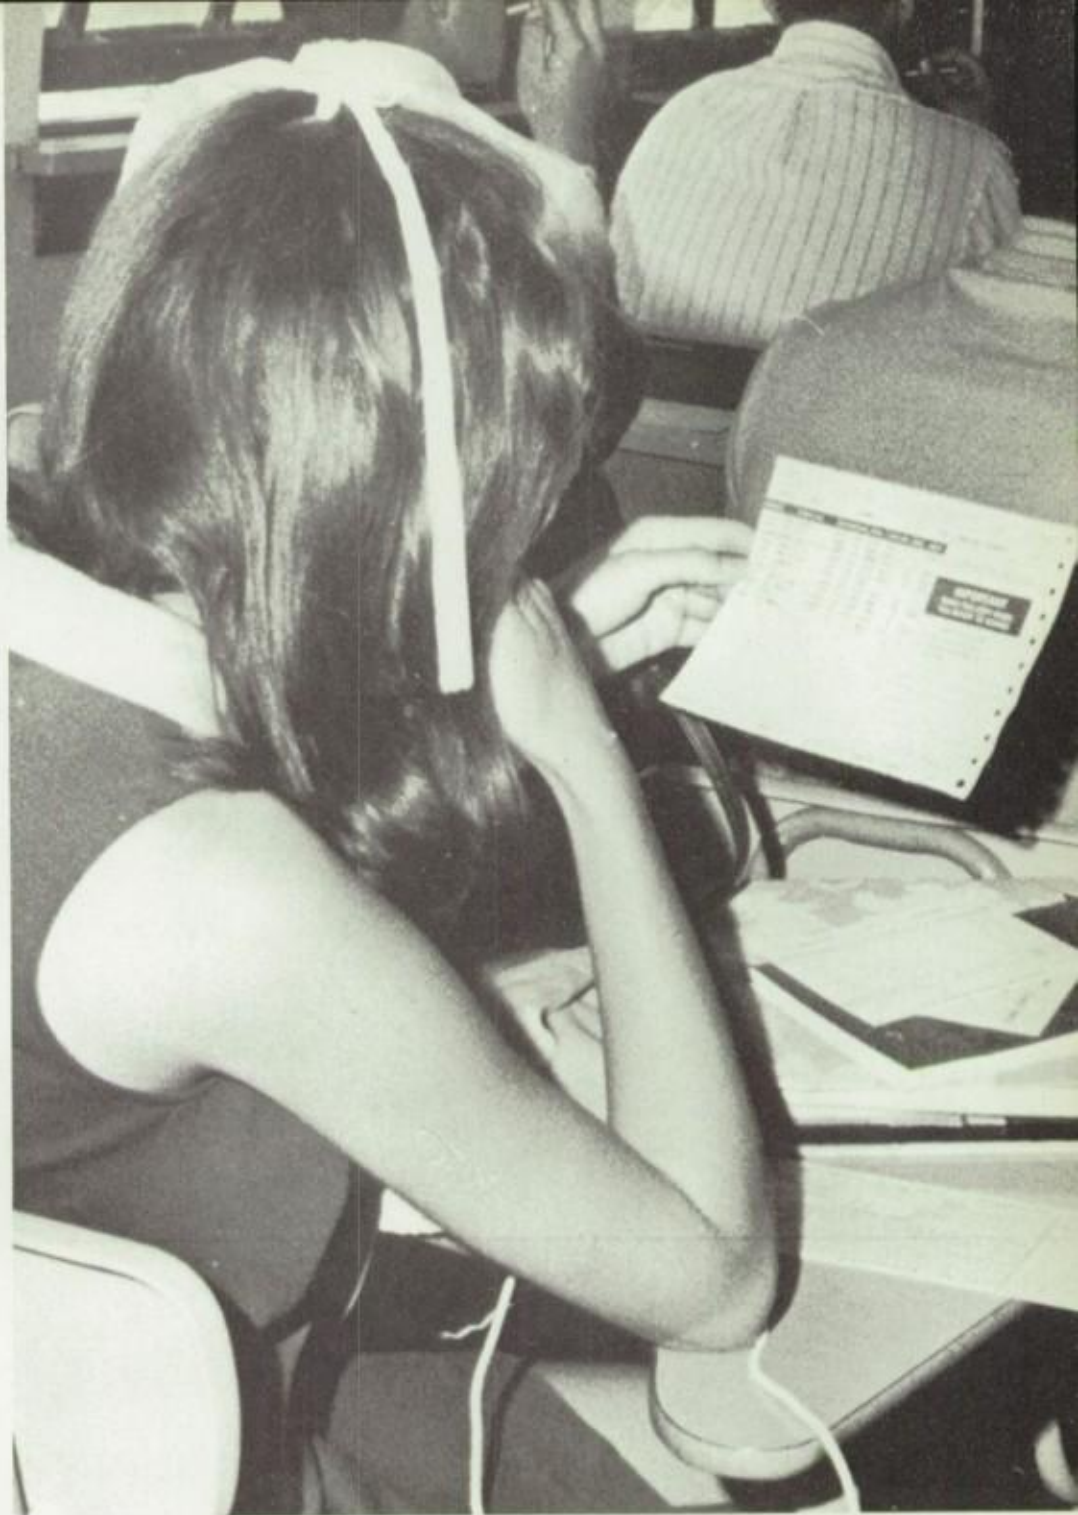

September 4, 1968, brought apprehensions after a restless night. Upperclassmen ridiculed bewildered freshmen, but discovered themselves confused by many changes, but this day was merely the beginning.

We returned. Reluctantly we waited at the doors and thought of what we could be doing. Typical seniors, like Dewayne Fulton and Rick Smith (A), threatened to go back home and cut classes that day. But at 8:00 A.M. all doors opened (B), and students of all shapes and sizes mobbed the building (C). Up the flights of stairs we trudged (D), and we gossiped about friends and gazed at the construction. The "usual" homeroom period followed: assigned seats (E), freshmen's jammed lockers (F), bored Ken Lhota (G), confusing computer cards (H). What did this first day accomplish? The beginning of a lot of work! (I).

STUDENT LIFE

*Spirit mounts week after week.
Fans await victory at the peak of action—
assault,
the big gamble,
tears after triumph.*

Games come and go, but each week the Lehman fans come to psyche their team (A)—and we mean all the fans (B)! At outdoor pep rallies, the cheers can be heard at least to 12th Street, but the freshmen never seem to win (C). All Lehman teams show that confidence of a winner in the locker room (D) because "Bears are GREAT!" in the words of Barry Adelman (G). Cheers rise when the Bears score (H), but if we let our chins drop, the rest of us inevitably follows (I). Then the next week the posters are hung again (F). Fair-weather fans? No. The fans don't stop backing the Bears when the going gets rough, because we have LEHMAN DESIRE (E).

STUDENT LIFE

We search for love, even though it will find us. In quiet moments away from the crowd, couples like Kathy Carter and Jeff Walsh share small secrets and hopeful dreams (A). Just walking, holding hands, alone, we find ourselves in others (C)—sometimes stopping to share a kiss or two (D). Clowning and laughing like Joe Niamtu and Trish Peterson (B), we build a happiness to last. For some though, dating without a driver's license becomes difficult unless they rent the chauffeur Jim Krabill (E). Often freshmen have nothing to do but play double solitaire like Sherry and Michael (G). No matter what age or type, for all young lovers there are moments of magic (F) that draw us to each other. It is in these tender confessions and "I love you's" that we learn whom we do love. By dating we find our future. But really now—Chris, Randy, and Aazy?!? (H)

*Dating builds a rapport like something between lovers—
 that security
 of companionship.
 Quiet moments and secrets shared make the struggle to keep going easier with the promise of a tomorrow.*

STUDENT LIFE

*Late hours, bitten nails, crossed fingers,
sighs of relief
accompany exams.
Tension mounts into quiet hysteria.
Time flies; pencils snap;
nerves cringe—
for the Almighty "A."*

Mountains of books for Peter Sone (A) as well as all other Lehman students worsen the agony of exams. That pounding thought to study, study, study haunts us even in the PB (B). Of course we all have those last minute questions over the phone like Marv Kline (C). Then it's back to the books on the floor like Mike Dickson as desks remain unused (D). Classroom work increases (E), and we study harder amidst fattening peanut butter sandwiches, Amy (I). Finally the day arrives. Nails bitten down, pencils chewed, heads scratched for Linda Evenchik (G) as the clocks still read 10:24 (F). One test day down—another to go. For some like Tom Kaufholz, it's back to the books (H). Others like Ed DiGiantonio think it's useless (J).

STUDENT LIFE

Various occupations employ Lehman students during school term and summer. Both Claudia Mann (A) and Cindy White (B) learn about people through restaurants. Pete Wagner (C) and Jim Haupt (D) work for the city in the library and the parks, respectively. Every Saturday, Ines Freimanis and Denise Nims (E) donate their time to patients at Timken Mercy by wheeling hospitality carts. But also through trips we meet people—Pete Bourlas (F) and the Panterlis family (H) in Greece, Ginny Butler and Nancy Pound in Columbia (I), Deb Levin at nearby Lake Erie (G).

Breaking the shell, we emerge into the adult worlds of work and travel. Whether found in responsibility or pleasure, the experiences we gain are of immeasurable value to our growth.

Helping others is the breath of life and a challenge without end.

Sometimes we find ourselves too small to meet the challenge. Turning then to our God to discern our inner thoughts, we find assurance and serenity.

STUDENT LIFE

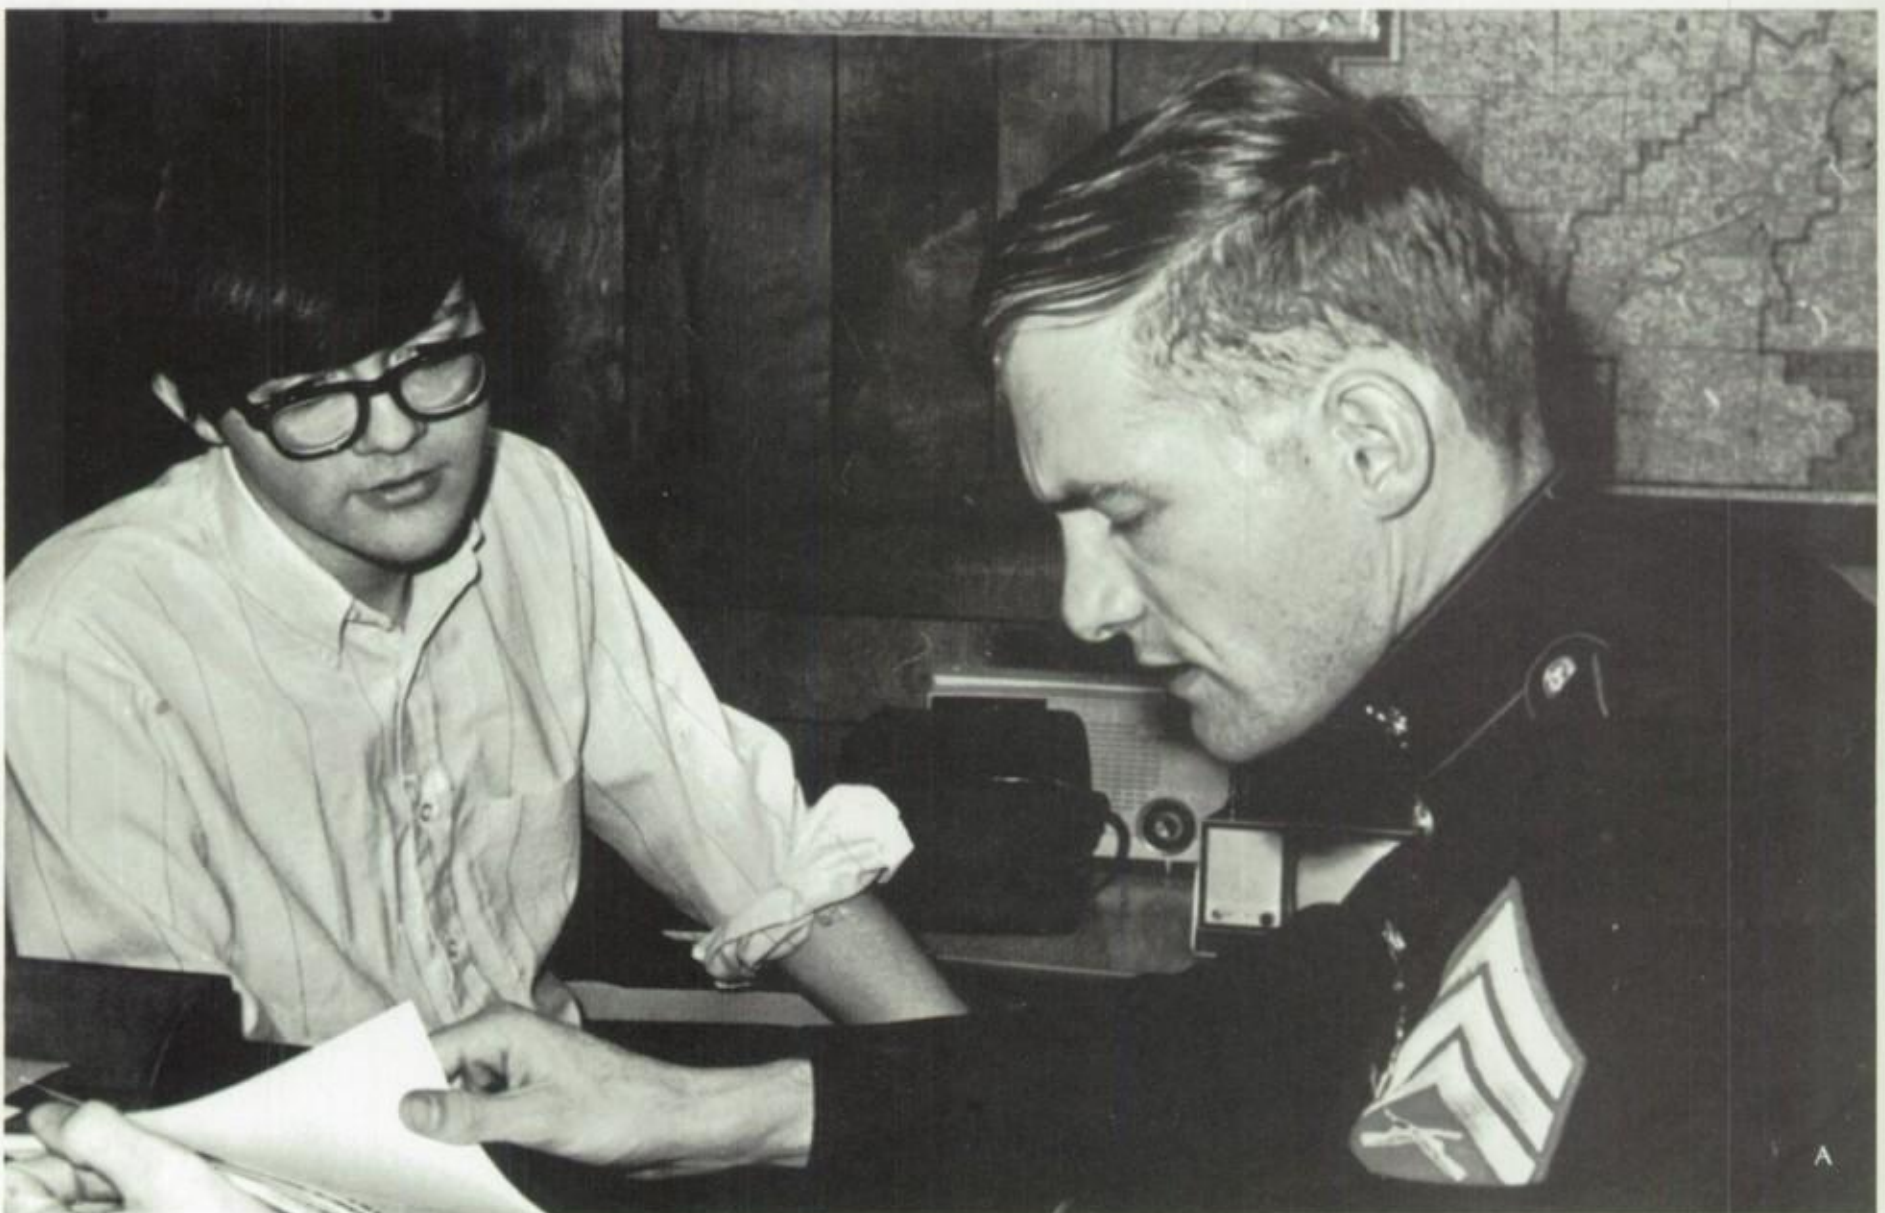

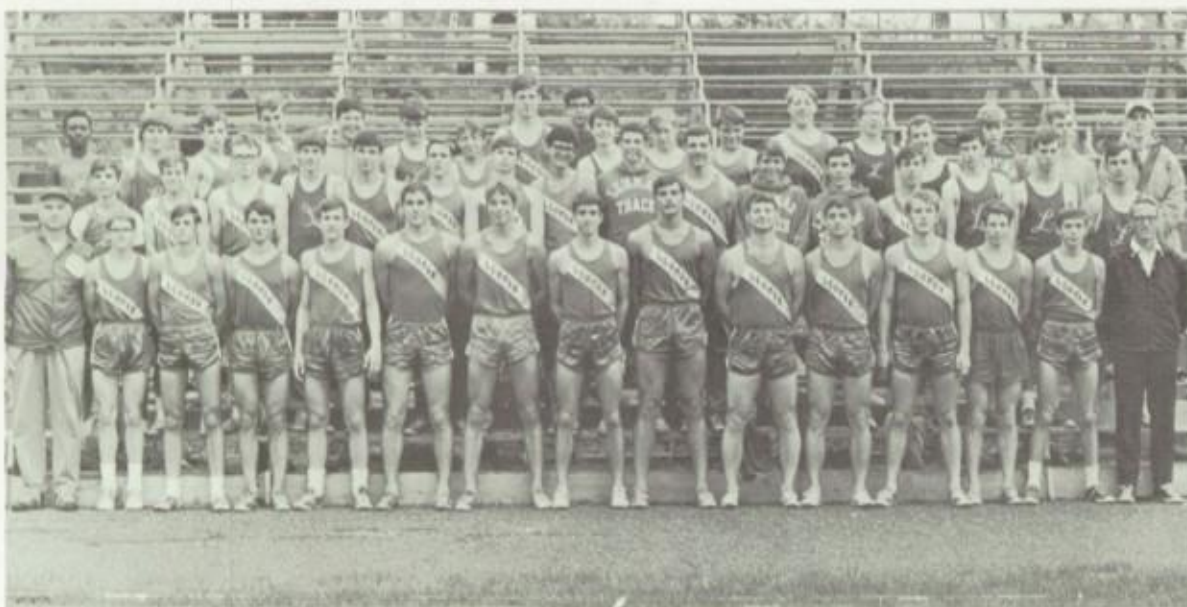

Serving the community, we mold a place for ourselves. Many students like Lorrie Goss (A) devote time and patience to students in the inter-city tutorial program. Other students discuss their concern on moral and religious issues at the weekly Young Life meetings (B). Nadine Whitehouse constructively teaches girls cheerleading techniques at Community School (C). Lehman yearly ties itself to the community by serving as a polling place (D). We all help by bringing toys for the underprivileged youngsters through the Marines (E). By involving ourselves, we still find the need for a guidance from a higher being whether Protestant like Tim Dennison (F), Orthodox like Sam Noussias (G), or Jewish like the Siskins (H).

STUDENT LIFE

Three roads to travel lie before us. As apprentices to life, we turn to the future by choosing one and leaving the others behind in obscurity. We must be sure. Yet indecisive thoughts guide us from childish innocence to adult confidences in a whirling kaleidoscope of life.

Seriousness envelops all seniors when we contemplate our future. Where do we go from Lehman? Of course at eighteen all young men like Dan Daugherty investigate the armed forces (A). We can find permanent employment like Rick Gothot (B), or we can further our education. Kathy Trauscht made her choice of colleges (C), but where do the rest of us go?

The quiet breeze carries with it the promise of the future.

To Linda

The wind always seems to understand.

It been a good

It brings memories with its soft whispering...

year hope there are memories of a time when the future was planned.

more after the party

But times pass and memories become lost among memories,

Sorry Love

and the future becomes uncertain as we throw our inhibitions to the gentle wind.

Linda,
 What can I say? (that true

at the Russ Church

A large, stylized, black and white illustration of a vertical, rectangular object, possibly a book cover or a decorative element. The object has a thick, dark border. Along the right edge, there is a series of small, repeating, curved shapes that resemble a comb or a series of small, rounded teeth. The top and bottom edges are slightly irregular, with small triangular shapes protruding from the corners. The overall style is minimalist and graphic.

Linda
 To a great chatter and a real
